VOICE OF BRITISH NATIONALISM

OCTOBER 1982

BLACKS NOW ABOVE THE LAW

THE NATIONWIDE RACE RIOTS that took place in the Summer of 1981 terrified Britain's political leaders and threw them into panic. For many years they had been assuring us that their multi-racial society was working fine and that Britain's Black and Asian peoples were being peacefully assimilated into the British population. The orgy of violence, looting and arson that broke out in July of last year, and which beyond any question was the work mainly of Coloured immigrants and their offspring, exposed this rosy picture as a total sham. From the indigenous British people grew the demand: If your multi-racial society is working, how do you explain the riots and what are you going to do to stop them?

The riots were 'explained' as being the result of poverty and unemployment among Black people — an excuse which conveniently ignored that there is a far greater number of White people suffering from these things, just as there were in the 1930s, without those Whites rioting and burning cities down.

FAVoured SPECIES

And what about stopping the riots? Now the politicians have hit on an answer to that too. It's all so easy! Treat the Coloured population as a specially favoured species. Never annoy them. Never upset them. If they break the law, don't arrest them — just look the other way.

This policy has now been communicated down to police chiefs in all the key areas of racial unrest, and those police chiefs have in turn communicated the policy down to the men working under them. These men, the ordinary PCs, Sergeants and station Inspectors, no doubt dislike the policy but they are forced to carry it out for fear of the sack.

NO-GO AREAS

The policy is to allow Black ghettos to become 'no go' areas into which the police seldom venture except if they are on missions of goodwill. All sorts of crime, and particularly drug traffic, is allowed to flourish while the police are instructed just to do nothing.

In BRISTOL a shop-owner, Roger Bennett, reported an attack on his shop by Black youths, who viciously assaulted members of his staff when they stopped one of the youths from stealing a stereo unit. He later stated to the local newspaper that he found the police to be totally disinterested when they learned of the race of the offenders. One of the officers told him that the gang probably came from the notorious St. Pauls district and that they had been given orders not to go and arrest anyone in that district. He admitted to Mr. Bennett that prostitution and the sale of drugs were being openly carried out in St. Pauls but the police had been instructed to do nothing to stop them.

Another Bristol man, Jack Green, who runs a taxi service, told the paper that the police ignored repeated calls for help when his offices were attacked by Black youths.

PRIDE OF RACE INDUSTRY

In BIRMINGHAM the race relations industry points with pride to what it calls the very amicable relations between the police and the Black community in the ghetto of Handsworth, the area of the biggest immigrant concentration in the city.

But this is only because the local police have been given orders to do virtually nothing if crime rears its head in the area. Said one officer recently to the News of the World: "In Handsworth, particularly at night, many minor offences are ignored in a bid not to upset the Black community. For instance, parking tickets are not issued after dark."

"Yet in the adjoining suburb of the more up-market Handsworth Wood, minor laws and infringements are rigidly enforced by both police and council officials."

Said one local resident: "Things go on here which would put you in the clink if they were done anywhere else."

THE MONTH OF VIOLENCE THAT TERRIFIED THE ESTABLISHMENT Police car burns in Brixton—July 1981

Crime flourishes in Coloured ghettos while police are ordered to look the other way

THE FRONT LINE

Railton Road, Brixton, where drug peddlers, prostitutes and pimps openly operate under the noses of an impotent police.

It is the same story in LIVERPOOL. Crime is booming in the predominantly Black Toxteth district because the police have been given orders to go easy on the criminals solely because they are Black. Said one senior Merseyside officer: "When you have a left-wing police committee who want you to treat criminals with kid gloves, you can't expect to be on top of the situation. Some of my men would dearly love to dispense real justice to these sick thugs but they'd be drummed out of the force if they did."

In MANCHESTER it is no different. Reports the News of the World (not, incidentally, a 'racialist' paper): "Criminals, pimps and prostitutes openly ply their trade in the inner city ghetto of Moss Side."

PROTECTION RACKETS

A reporter from the paper said that Black youngsters ran mini-protection rackets in which they offered to 'keep an eye' on parked cars for a fee of 50p a time. The threat was clear that if this fee was not paid the cars would get smashed up. The reporter saw Black kids openly operating these rackets while a constable was standing by in a doorway doing nothing.

As for the notorious LONDON suburb of Brixton, that has become virtually an independent territory, in no way subject to the laws of the United Kingdom. Crime and vice of every description are practised there on an unparalleled scale while the practitioners remain quite safe from arrest or prosecution.

LEGACY OF SCARMAN

Following the idiotic recommendations of the Scarman Report, police policy — no doubt dictated by the Home Office acting under instruction from the 'race relations' lobby of the Establishment — is to bend over backwards to avoid doing anything to antagonise the Blacks, particularly in the infamous Railton Road area, known as the 'Front Line'. Drug traffic in the area has reached terrifying proportions, but there is little evidence of any determination on the part of the police to deal with it.

It is the same over the river in Notting Hill. There a police officer has said of the drug trade: "We know what is going on." The trade nevertheless continues because of almost total police inaction. One reporter from the News of the World

CARNIVAL CAPERS

DESPITE attempts to convince us otherwise, the Notting Hill Carnival yet again degenerated into an orgy of lawlessness. Most Britons who witnessed the bizarre scenes on their TV screens probably regarded the carnival as a frivolous irrelevance, of no concern to them; others, of a more patriotic outlook, can only have regarded such goings-on in our capital city with dismay, if not a burning resentment.

The spectacle of so many liberal do-gooders, trendy clergymen, policemen (probably under orders) and other exhibitionists seeking to ingratiate themselves with the black community by cavorting in public with portly negresses and scruffy "Rastafarians" was truly sickening to behold. More alarming was the "low profile" adopted by the police (presumably in deference to Lord Scarman), which enabled muggers and drug peddlers to ply their trades with impunity. Even The Times, in an otherwise ingratiatingly pro-carnival editorial, saw fit to describe the low-profile strategy as a "calculated temporary deference to the Lord of Misrule."

But quite the most disturbing aspect of the carnival was the media's conspiracy to present the event as a harmless and law-abiding piece of fun, and to suggest that crime was almost non-existent compared with previous years. Contrary to all the glowing tributes made by the media about the behaviour of participants at this year's carnival, the police have reported that no less than 214 crimes were committed this year compared with 148 at last year's carnival. So much for Lord Scarman's recommendations!

Another cause for concern is the astronomical cost the carnival incurred in terms of the damage done, the disruption and inconvenience cause, and the public services provided. It is not yet possible to estimate what the final cost of the carnival will be, but what is known is that even before it began, taxpayers and London rate-payers provided the organisers with more than £20,000 through grants made by the GLC, the Commission for Racial Equality and the Arts Council. Public munificence on such a scale will not be appreciated by the increasing number of Britons who utterly oppose the alien take over of our country.

If the Lord of Misrule must be propitiated in the interests of racial harmony, let it be done somewhere other than in Britain. Let people who wish to participate in these alien capers go to those parts of the world where such capers belong, hopefully to stay there. Our rulers must understand that whether they like it or not this is still Britain and that we British Nationalists are determined to rid ourselves of the alien culture and modes of behaviour that are being thrust upon us.

A LABOUR PARTY group which includes Mrs. Caroline Benn, wife of Mr. Tony Benn, has published a report insisting that girls must be treated like boys. The group says that girls should play soccer and rugby, wear trousers and be called by their surnames like boys. The report also suggests that it is insulting to call a girl pretty or to describe a girl as a good cook.

TAXPAYERS' money to the tune of £45,000 has been paid by Lambeth Council to the Black Ink Collective for publishing a book which expresses the feelings and

We destroy everything in our path
That's how we get our kicks.
We enjoy fighting old ladies
We like them to shiver and beg for mercy.

NEWS ROUND-UP

MOTIONS put before this year's Liberal Assembly in Bournemouth included one proposing that the police should come under the direct control of elected councillors; one suggesting that prison sentences should be reduced and that remission should be increased from a third to a half of all sentences; and another demanding that "racist" behaviour by policemen should be punished by instant dismissal.

COLOURED SPORTS STARS BRING NO PRESTIGE TO THIS COUNTRY

AT A RECENT soccer match between an England under-23 XI and a Danish XI England supporters in the crowd booed members of their own team because they were Black.

We are opposed to this practice — it is unsporting.

But we are equally opposed to Black footballers representing England; they are not English except possibly by virtue of the accident that their parents may have been living in this country when they were born.

In fact we are opposed to any Coloured sportsmen or women taking the field on behalf of doing that from the ranks of our own race. If we cannot do that, we do not deserve to win.

Recently 'British' and 'English' sports teams have included more and more Coloured performers. Many of our top football clubs have Black players, and a few of these have got into the England side. The new fast bowler to be sent with the MCC cricket team to Australia this Winter is Norman Cowans, a West Indian. In athletics, the infiltration of Coloureds into the 'British' international ranks is perhaps worst of all. Daley Thompson, the world decathlon champion, is half West

Our annoyance should be directed at those who have been responsible for creating a multi-racial Britain in which British nationality no longer means anything and in which these aliens are able to pass off (at least among some folk) as Britons.

Let us end this multi-racial society and let these people return to their countries of origin and compete in international sport as representatives of those countries — as they should.

And let Britain produce enough champions from out of her own indigenous population to challenge them and beat them!

Some of them may be very good at their particular sports, and some of them may even win international victories. All credit to them for these victories.

But they are not British victories; they are the victories of people who by all proper criteria are foreigners. We should not have to import foreigners to win prizes for ourselves in international sporting competition; we should be able to produce the athletes capable of

The supporters of the multi-racial society are fond of shouting how these Coloured athletes have been of such value to Britain for the prestige that they have won for us in international sport.

NO PRESTIGE

This is nonsense. Britain does not win prestige through the victories of competitors who are not British.

As we have said, all credit to these sportsmen and sportswomen for their achievements. They have dedicated their lives to one of the few forms of human activity in which they can excel and get to the top. No-one can blame them for doing that. When they take the field

— Admiral Sir Henry Leach

— A Bristol policeman reported in News of the World

"For when in the long history of mankind were there ever 'nations' which could not even feed themselves? And is it not significant that so much praise and encouragement should have been given to 'emerging nations' in Africa at a period in history when in the developed areas of the world the great Establishment media were unanimous in denigrating nationalism and discouraging and downgrading every form of political patriotism?"

YOUR LETTERS

Sir,—I'm becoming increasingly annoyed by the continual portrayal on TV and in the cinema of Blacks and other aliens as "goodies" while ordinary British people are depicted as "baddies." For instance, Crossroads has recently given great prominence to a black family who are shown to be law abiding, likeable and altogether superior to their brick-throwing, poisonous letter-writing neighbours. It also annoys me that Blacks are now nearly always shown as authority figures like doctors, lawyers and senior police officers, while Whites are shown to be petty criminals or demented half-wits (like Benny in Crossroads).

But we all know that this situation is a complete reversal of the truth. Generally speaking Whites do not riot, and it is incontestable that on a per capita basis Blacks commit far more violent crimes than Whites do. It is high time that the media moguls injected a little reality into their programmes, but this is unlikely to happen so long as TV and the cinema remain in the hands of the anti-British aliens who have gained control of them.

Sir,—On several occasions New Frontier has drawn attention to Lord Carrington's mysterious trip to Israel at the very time that the Argentine invasion force was on its way towards the Falkland Islands. As an employee of GEC it was therefore with some consternation that I learned that this Trilateralist, Bilderberger and failed Foreign Secretary is to be the new Chairman of Lord Weinstock's empire. Perhaps he went to Israel to be interviewed for the job! Or did he go there to be interviewed for his recently announced appointment as a director of Kissinger Associates, the "Consultancy Organization" set up by Dr. Henry Kissinger? Perhaps he was interviewed for both jobs while he was there! Intriguing, isn't it?

Whatever the answer to these questions may be, it worries me that a man with such a pitiful record as Carrington should head the Company on which I depend for my living. What are his credentials for the job I wonder? If a man who destroyed Rhodesia and followed that up by betraying the people of the Falklands is considered fit to head GEC, then my outlook is indeed bleak.

As the A-level winners strive to find a university place ... the story of one candidate who triumphed over his environment

BLATANT DISCRIMINATION!

Misleading heading from The Mail on Sunday.—There was no 'triumph', just favoured treatment

A YOUNG BLACK from Brixton has got himself a place at Oxford University, not because he has the necessary academic ability and qualifications, but because he has been given preferential consideration over White applicants because of his colour.

Colin Douglas, pictured here, has a B grade in economics and two D grades in English and geography as a result of his A level exams. These would never have been enough to get him to Oxford on merit alone. But because he is Black he was given special treatment. This month he goes up to Keble College to study Philosophy, Politics and Economics under a special arrangement between the university and the Inner London Education Authority, part of the left-wing controlled Greater London Council. He is the first person to take a degree under this arrangement but he almost certainly will not be the last.

In reporting his entry into the university, The Mail on Sunday

How the race industry got an unqualified Black to Oxford described him as having "triumphed over his environment." But in fact he did no such thing. As he himself admitted, he was "very, very lucky." His luck consisted of the fact that he was born with a Black skin and is therefore part of a community especially favoured by such bodies as the GLC, whose policy it is to promote Blacks in society irrespective of whether they earn such promotion or not. Had Colin Douglas been White and come from the same working class background, he would have had to perform much better in his exams to get to Oxford. Many young Whites have obtained better qualifications than he has but have been disappointed in their bids to get places in the famous university.

The purpose of the ILEA scheme is to pick up 'budding scholars' who, in the opinion of the leftist-biased 'experts' who run the Authority, would have achieved an Oxford place had it not been for living in London's inner city deprived areas — i.e. had it not been for the fact that they were Black and failed to reach the required standards. This year 18 'hopefuls' were interviewed at five colleges and 9 were given conditional places.

Apparently one of the entrance tests that put Colin Douglas among these 9 was a question on the Brixton riots. In an interview with three dons, he satisfied them with his answers — which translated into plain English means that he explained the riots in the terms that met with 'liberal', do-gooder approval. So keen were the tutors to have him at Keble that they asked the university to ignore a French O level failure which ordinarily would have disqualified him.

This is just one story among the meantime Whites who would many thousands which illustrate how the Establishment in this country is determined to elevate Blacks to positions in society which they could not possibly win by their own abilities and achievements. In new 'multi-racial' Britain.

TALKING POINTS

by FRONTIERSMAN

AN ADMIRAL SPEAKS

At long last a senior serving officer in the armed forces has had the guts to attack in no uncertain terms the Government's vacillating and incomprehensible defence policies. In a lecture given to the Royal United Services Institute, the First Sea Lord, Admiral Sir Henry Leach, described the Government's rundown of the Royal Navy as "irresponsible", and he claimed that last year's Defence Review was "a major con-trick" and "a catalogue of half-truths." No doubt Admiral Leach will be "carpeted" for having had the courage to say what so badly needed saying, but it is unlikely that any further

action will be taken against him because it is now quite clear that had Mr. Nott's policies outlined in the Defence Review been fully implemented, it would have been impossible for Britain to eject the Argentines from the Falkland Islands. It is comforting to know that there are still men in our Armed Forces who are not afraid to put the defence of our country before their own careers. Well done Admiral!

NOTT QUILTS

And while on the subject of careers, I'm delighted to learn that the asinine John Nott has decided to remove himself from the Ministry of Defence before the next general election. He is quite the worst Minister of Defence that this country has ever had and he should have been removed from office the moment that Argentine forces set foot on the Falklands. The fact that he wasn't dismissed immediately suggests that Mrs. Thatcher's involvement in the Falklands debacle is much greater than we have been led to believe.

In the interests of our country's defence Nott should retire at once, but the question then arises: who is there to succeed him? Among the nincompoops who currently grace the Tory front bench there is no one of the calibre to whom I would entrust the defence of our country. Indeed, the only Tory worthy of the task is Mr. Keith Speed, who was unceremoniously dumped as Secretary for the Navy by Mrs. Thatcher after he had dared to criticise Mr. Nott's rundown of the Navy last year. However, there is one other person who I think deserves to be considered for the post — none other than our old friend Admiral Sir Henry Leach. But, it will be argued, Sir Henry is not a politician and has no political experience. Precisely! — national defence is far too important to be left to the tender mercies of the careerists and charlatans who today sit in the House of Commons. By contrast with them, Sir Henry is a proven patriot.

JOHN

CRIME PAYS!

A recent issue of the Daily Mail has suggested that Home Secretary Willie "Wobbly" Whitelaw is losing the "fight" against crime. I was unaware that Whitelaw was fighting crime, but thought he was aiding and abetting it by the implementation of his soft policies and his flaccid attitude towards criminals. Apparently, Whitelaw is becoming increasingly alarmed by the indiscipline and violence in our prisons, which he blames on overcrowding. It is true that our prisons are overcrowded, but whose fault is that? Why, flabby politicians like Willie Whitelaw who, instead of making sure that prisons are sufficiently unpleasant to deter criminals, have made them so comfortable and congenial that they have come to resemble holiday camps. That this is so is confirmed by a recent Home Office report informing us that 50 per cent of adult male prisoners who serve sentences of more than three months are re-convicted within two years of their release. Evidently prison holds no terrors for them! In such circumstances it is any wonder that the prisons are overcrowded and that crime is on the increase? The criminal fraternity is fast learning that so long as people like Whitelaw are running our affairs crime really does pay.

DO-GOODING JUDGE

How can anyone respect the law when judges are seen to bend over backwards to be lenient, and even show favouritism, to black criminals? The recent newspaper reports about how Judge Michael Argyle promised to find a job (obsequiously adding: "If you don't object") for West Indian Delroy Brown, who had been found guilty of carrying an offensive weapon, astounds me. That the Judge should also give him a conditional discharge and follow this up by awarding him £100 out of probation funds is utterly incredible! Would this do-gooding

Judge Argyle (left) — the job finder; Delroy Brown (right) — Guilty but gets discharge plus £100.

Judge have done the same for a White found guilty of a similar offence? I rather doubt it.

A MATTER OF CHOICE

G. K. Chesterton's famous epigram

How odd of God to choose the Jews first caused me to query the Jewish claim and to regard many of the stories contained in the Old Testament as pure myth. It is therefore somewhat reassuring to learn that Dan Jacobson (who presumably is Jewish) has written a book entitled The Story of Stories: the Chosen People and its God, in which he echoes Israel Zangwill's theory that it was not God who chose the Jews, but the Jews who created their own rather convenient God. Certainly, by convincing themselves that they are a "Chosen People" the Jews imagine that they are entitled to rights and privileges not conferred on the rest of mankind — as recent events in the Lebanon have amply demonstrated.

COMMON MARKET COMMENT

ABOUT TURN!

ONE of the most significant things about the EEC is the way people change their minds about the desirability of Britain's continued membership of the Community. And such about turns are not confined to members of the main parties. Mr. Dafydd Wigley, the Plaid Cymru MP for Caernarvon, who, at the time of Britain's entry, was an ecstatic supporter of membership, now favours withdrawal. At a Gower by-election press conference Mr. Wigley said that he thought joining the EEC would create opportunities for Welsh industry. In the event this has not materialised.

Meanwhile, one veteran "anti-Marketeer", the garrulous Mrs. Barbara Castle (who makes a very nice living out of being an "MEP"), is modifying her former much-publicised opposition to the Community. She is now saying that the Labour Party, instead of advocating British withdrawal (a promise we've heard before and therefore take with a pinch of salt) should pledge that on coming to power it should endeavour to persuade the Community to adopt a more socialist policy. She says: "Our comrades in Europe will listen to us if we change our approach." Will they?

A GOOD THING?

THE writer of this column has frequently remarked on the futility of the European Parliament, which has no real powers and is essentially nothing more than a latter-day Tower of Babel. Judging by the members' reluctance to attend debates in the Parliament, it would seem that many of them are in agreement. Recently, during a highly important debate about EEC trade with the Warsaw Pact countries, the Parliament couldn't even muster a quorum because only 74 members out of 434 were present. When one considers the enormous salaries and expenses that "MEPs" get, it is obvious that they are onto a very good thing!

COMMON MARKET SENSE

WE seldom read much common sense about the Common Market in the newspapers, but one financial journalist who frequently hits the nail on the head is C. Gordon Tether. Writing in a recent issue of The Times he says: "Anti-Marketeers have been claiming for a long time past — and not without some justification — that there are reasons for thinking that Britain's membership of the Community during the past 10 years has played a part in the growth of unemployment in this country." Indeed there are! As this particular anti-Marketeer put it in a letter to the press as long ago as 1971: "... the proposition that we should fetter ourselves to the Six, all of which have economies similar to our own instead of having dissimilar economies which would therefore be mutually beneficial, will inevitably result in massive unemployment." Such an outcome was obvious to anyone with even a modicum of intelligence; but the pro-Marketeers were not concerned with the unemployment and consequent misery they were creating. What concerned them was furthering the cause of internationalism at any cost.

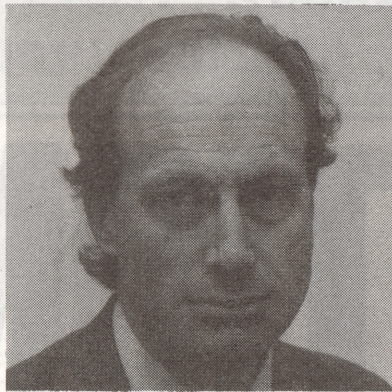

Paper sales: how to do it

LEWISHAM BRANCH of the British National Party report that in the week ending October 3rd they sold £64 worth of party literature.

This was made up principally of copies of New Frontier, the monthly magazine Spearhead and the party's youth paper Young Nationalist.

This literature was sold by means of street sales in busy shopping centres and door-to-door sales conducted in the evenings in selected residential areas.

Lewisham Branch is no bigger party unit than a number of others around the country, and there is no reason why it should be regarded as being in an especially favoured position to achieve high levels of literature sales. What makes Lewisham Branch special is its sheer professionalism and dedication to the job. It takes literature sales really seriously and goes out to bring party publications to the public.

RICHARD EDMONDS
Driving force

In the forefront of this sales campaign is Organiser Richard Edmonds, who combines his branch duties with those of Regional Organiser for South London and of Chairman of the party's youth Richard, the Young Nationalist. Richard Edmonds is a super-activist who believes in leading from the front and never asking others to undertake what he would not undertake himself. To him first and foremost the party owes its magnificent level of literature sales on behalf of the Lewisham Branch. What he has done should serve as an inspiration and an example of what can be done to branches all over Britain.

A great many of these branches can achieve what Lewisham has achieved — all that is needed is the will to get out and sell!

WON OVER

We have just heard with great pleasure that the former Thurrock Branch of the National Front has decided to throw in its lot with the British National Party. Welcome Thurrock — we are delighted to have you!

New Frontier, though it believes in racial differences, opposes race-hatred. All those who oppose multi-racialism should attack the politicians who promote it, not the immigrants, who are merely its victims.

REGIONAL ROUND-UP

The BNP branch in Leicester staged a most profitable activity recently when they demonstrated in sympathy with the members of Spinneyhill Working Men's Club, who are facing Race Act prosecution for excluding Coloured members. The branch handed leaflets out outside the club premises and no less than 20 club members came out to thank them.

Greenwich Branch has won a lot of local support in its campaign against a council plan to allocate council houses to homosexual couples.

Gateshead Branch created a big impression when they held a demonstration outside a Communist bookshop in Newcastle just over the river. The occasion was a visit to the bookshop by Comsimp Tony Benn.

BNP Leader John Tyndall spoke at the first meeting of the BNP Bristol branch earlier this month. New members were signed up after the meeting.

said that he personally was surrounded by dealers on one occasion who pestered him to buy drugs, while two policemen walked by and ignored the whole business.

After the Notting Hill West Indian carnival this year it was proudly announced by the news media that, unlike in some previous years, there had been very little disorder, and, as if to underline this, pictures were published showing grinning police officers letting their hair down in the midst of carousing Blacks.

Inside information, however, which came to us from contacts we have in the police, was that drug traffic and petty pilfering were occurring on a greater scale than ever before. The only difference from previous years' carnivals was that this time the police were just ignoring the lawbreaking whereas in the past they had taken action to stop it. Of course there was little rioting because the Black criminals were being allowed to do as they liked!

POLITICIANS HAPPY

In the face of this appalling breakdown of law and order, the politicians are quite happy. By ordering the police to turn a blind eye to Black crime, while they continue to act against criminals when they are White, they have for the time being pacified the Blacks and given them nothing to riot about. As a result they can now boast to the world that there has not been in the Summer of 1982 any repetition of the race trouble that we had in 1981. They can pretend that they are getting on top of the situation and that 'race relations' are actually improving!

In fact just to improve 'race relations' and shore up their tottering multi-racial society our political leaders have totally abdicated responsibility to ensure that in Britain's largely Black inner city areas the law is upheld and law-abiding citizens are able to go about in peace.

POLICE NOT TO BLAME

There are some foolish people who would like to make the police the scapegoats for this madcap policy of allowing Black criminals to go scot-free. But our opinion is that the police are not primarily to blame. There are some police high-ups who willingly collaborate with the traitors of Parliament and the Home Office in order just to further their careers when they might by firmer resistance have put a stop to these treasonable policies. On the whole, however, the police are only acting under orders which they are powerless to change.

Our condemnation should be directed against the nation's leaders, who have shown themselves to be even bigger criminals than the ones who strut about plying their trade in the areas concerned. One day they will, like those they protect, be brought to justice and given the punishment they so richly deserve.

PERSONAL SMEARS

A statement by the Chairman of the British National Party

One of the surest signs that a political party is on the upsurge and on the right track is when its leading officers become the subject of vicious and hysterical smears issued through the post by persons lacking the courage to name themselves.

It has come to my notice that certain smears of this kind have recently been circulated in the way that I have described and have been directed against certain of my leading political colleagues. I have examined these smear documents carefully and have found a number of allegations in them which I know from first-hand evidence to be total lies — thus giving scant credibility to the documents as a whole. These documents, in contrast to statements that I have sometimes felt called to make about figures on the British Nationalist scene, have been issued anonymously — which further lowers their credibility, if that is possible. I urge all Nationalists, and in particular members of the BNP, to treat such smear documents with the contempt they deserve.

If those who are the authors of these smears feel that they have vital information concerning officers of our party, or for that matter me myself, which they think ought to be known to Nationalists, let them identify themselves so that they may be cross-examined about their allegations. Then such allegations may be looked into seriously. When they fail to identify themselves, however, they only confirm the impression that they cannot back up their allegations with hard and provable facts, and that their purpose in circulating smears is not to serve Nationalism but to serve its enemies.

NO ACTION OVER WORLD IN ACTION

THE DIRECTOR of Public Prosecutions has announced that no action will be taken in the courts over the alleged gun-running of prominent Nationalists in the East Midlands and in London. The allegations were made in the television programme "World in Action" on the 6th July last year, and were followed up by the magazine Searchlight and by Labour Weekly. The DPP's decision means that those accused are now cleared of any criminality in this connection.

New Frontier will now watch with interest to see whether or not any action will be taken against these proven false-accusers. It is certainly theoretically possible for them to be prosecuted for criminal libel and they are obviously guilty of public mischief.

If no action is taken against the "World in Action" team in particular, it will demonstrate that the media in this country have become a law unto themselves and, unless those libelled are very rich, that they have nothing to fear from the authorities no matter whom they choose to lie about. Searchlight and Labour Weekly even went so far as to try to drag two prominent East Midlands Nationalists into the investigation when these men had not even been mentioned in the programme. One of them, John Peacock, the Leicester Branch Organiser of the BNP, wrote to the Chief Constable of Leicester and received a reply to the effect that he, Mr. Peacock, had never even been under any suspicion. The Chief Constable added that he was unable to make a public statement to that effect.

So there we have it. A proven lie which hasn't even a smokescreen, let alone fire, and yet a senior police officer who knows full well that it is a lie is unable to say so publicly and Mr. Peacock, not a rich man by any stretch of the imagination, is unable to exact any retribution at all from these liars because he would risk bankruptcy to do so. What a commentary upon the "civil rights" that our liberal politicians are so fond of boasting about!
